Conditions of Supply – Utility Drawings

The attached drawing shows the approximate location of known existing water mains and any proposed mains.

Service pipes are not recorded but should be anticipated between each property and the adjacent water main.

Any record drawings are provided for guidance only and no guarantee of accuracy is given or implied.

Hand-dug trial holes should be used to determine the exact location of mains prior to your works commencing.

Mechanical excavators should not be used in any case within 0.5 metres of mains up to 150mm diameter and this distance is increased for larger diameter mains. Mains should be exposed in hand dug trial holes prior to the use of trenchless techniques and the trial holes should be left open until the works are complete. Please contact us to arrange a site visit where your intention is to work near to any main larger than 150mm diameter or the use of trenchless techniques is anticipated.

If you require any assistance in locating water mains please telephone the above number.

Please note that drawings can be supplied as follows;
